Regardless of the profile you're eyeing, there's no denying the importance of the resume as the first knockout round of every placement season. But if you'd fancy yours to be a piece of art instead of a check in the box, we have just the event for you.

This Sunday, the IEEE SB of NITW has over Mr. Ankit Kumar to help you craft a resume so advanced your next company would be calling you a select before they even release the shortlist. Emphasis on his prefix - our speaker's currently pursuing his degree just like you and me. But that hasn't stopped him from interning with three companies, founding one of his own, visiting several colleges for workshops on resumes, and reviewing first-hand a several hundred.

We're ecstatic to be his hosts, and you'll be ecstatic to be his audience.
